Smoke rises up at a crash site of a passenger plane near the village of Grabovo, Ukraine, on Thursday. Malaysian airplane with 298 aboard shot down over Ukraine

No sign of survivors.
At least one Canadian among passengers as Ukraine blames rebels for disaster and Russia says Ukraine bears responsibility Ukraine accused pro-Russian separatists of shooting down a Malaysian jetliner with 298 people aboard Thursday, sharply escalating the crisis and threatening to draw both East and West deeper into the conflict. The rebels denied downing the aircraft.

An official with Malaysia Airlines says at least one Canadian was among the passengers.

American intelligence authorities believe a surface-to-air missile brought the plane down but were still working Thursday on who fired the missile and whether it came from the Russian or Ukrainian side of the border, a U.S. official said.

Bodies, debris and burning wreckage of the Boeing 777 were strewn over a field near the rebel-held village of Hrabove in the Donetsk region of eastern Ukraine, about 40 kilometres from the Russian border.

The aircraft appeared to have broken up before impact, and there were large pieces of the plane that bore the red, white and blue markings of Malaysia Airlines — now familiar worldwide because of the carrier's still-missing jetliner from earlier this year.

There was no sign of any survivors from Flight 17, which took off shortly after noon Thursday from Amsterdam to Kuala Lumpur with 283 passengers, including three infants, and a crew of 15. Malaysia's prime minister said there was no distress call before the plane went down and that the flight route was declared safe by the International Civil Aviation Organization.

Ukraine President Petro Poroshenko called it an "act of terrorism" and demanded an international investigation. He insisted his forces did not shoot down the plane.

U.S. President Barack Obama called the crash a "terrible tragedy" and spoke by phone with Russian President Vladimir Putin as well as Poroshenko. Later, Putin said Ukraine bore responsibility for the crash, but he didn't address the question of who might have shot it down and didn't accuse Ukraine of doing so.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper issued a statement expressing shock and sadness about the destruction of the plane and said Canada is willing to provide whatever support it can to assist authorities in determining the cause of the crash. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Assiniboine Park. Police recover three of the playground's rubber balls from a West End home

shane.gibson@metronews.ca

The "Skittles" stolen from Assiniboine Park's Nature Playground this week are back after apparently spending a few days as lawn ornaments in the backyard of a West End home.

The large rubber balls — estimated to weigh about 300 pounds each — went missing Monday night, and news of the theft quickly spread over social media.

A neighbour noticed the three large rubber balls in the backyard of a home on Lipton Street near St. Matthews Avenue and called police, who picked them up and returned them to the park Wednesday night.

"They are back, appear to be in good condition and it looks like they've already been installed in the Nature Playground," said Assiniboine Park Conservancy spokesperson Laura Cabak as kids happily played on the balls Thursday morning. "We'd like to thank the public media for their help.

"We asked for help, the response was great and we got the balls back and that's exactly what we wanted."

Speculation ran rampant online about how anyone could have lifted the balls out of the park, but Cabak told Metro each "Skittle" can be split in half, making them easier to move around.

Police have not determined how the balls ended up in the backyard and no arrests have been made, but the investigation is continuing.

pledged $500,000 to start revitalizing the more-than seven kilometres of paved trails that weave through the 400-acre park.

The park's president and CEO, Margaret Redmond, said the donation will start an expected $2 million worth of repairs to the park's pathways to begin this fall with the trail to the English Gardens.

At Fringe. Fake Germans, Hollywood cabaret and a Nashville Hurricane

Metro Winnipeg and the CBC have partnered to bring you the best of the Winnipeg Fringe Festival. Here are three shows you should check out:

Die Roten Punkte

After a four-year absence, musical comedy duo Die Roten Punkte is back at the Winnipeg Fringe — and they've got sass to spare.

Ostensibly related and obviously not-actually-German, Otto and Astrid Rot are a costumed musical comedy duo in the same vein as Flight of the Conchords or Spinal Tap. All you really need to know is this: they're hilarious.

While their songs are clever and their musicianship is impressive, their interstitial banter is the real star of the show. Irreverent and enthusiastic, performers Clare Bartholomew and Daniel Tobias will surely have you leaving the venue with a smile on your face.

Grab a beer, some friends and watch this glittery faux-German duo do its thing. You won't regret it. ANDREW FRIESEN

Nashville Hurricane: A Curious Tale of Fingerpickin' Fury

Chase Padgett weaves four characters, six strings and more notes than could humanly be counted into a bit of theatrical magic with Nashville Hurricane.

Padgett tells the story of a guitar prodigy who is torn between his deeply flawed but loving mother ("I'm a good Christian woman but I will stab a vegan in the face," she says in explaining her tattoo of Jesus on a Slim Jim cross), an unscrupulous manager and a blues musician. And Padgett is a remarkable talent on many fronts — his character work probably sits with the best you'll see at this year's festival, he banters with the crowd like a seasoned pro and his furious flurry of fretwork on the guitar is breathtaking. JOFF SCHMIDT

Red Hot Mama: A Sophie Tucker Cabaret

Melanie Gall and her powerfully emotive, technically dazzling voice make this one-woman musical "bio-play" an unforgettable delight.

Gall takes the stage as Sophie Tucker, who recaps her rise through early 20th century vaudeville, cabaret and Hollywood while giving a performance at the peak of her career. The format allows Gall to fully inhabit Tucker, relating the indignities of being forced to perform in blackface and fired for her plus size, telling jokes that would make Joan Rivers blush and singing the '20s standards and bawdy love songs that made her famous around the world.

We don't get the end of Tucker's life story, but that doesn't matter either. She is still gloriously, vibrantly alive in Gall's performance.

North End. Police charge two men, two teens in gas-station robbery

Two men and two teens are facing a number of charges after four people robbed a north-end gas station early Tuesday.

The four robbers — one of whom was armed with a gun — demanded and received cash and cigarettes from an employee working at a gas station in the 100 block of Salter Street around 4:40 a.m.

While fleeing the store the robbers fired their gun, but no one was injured.

Officers with police dogs swarmed the area and quickly arrested a 20-year-old man at a home in the 100 block of Robinson Street. Three other suspects have since been arrested.

Michael Theodore Edwards, 20, and Brandon David Richard, 20, both of Winnipeg, and two 17-year-old males are facing charges, including robbery with a firearm.

CFO faces tough questions on audit

Finance committee. Havixbeck, Wyatt ask Ruta for answers on police headquarters

BERNICE PONTANILLA
bernice.pontanilla@metronews.ca

Two councillors on the finance committee took up Mayor Sam Katz's offer, posing several questions to the city's chief financial officer on the Winnipeg police headquarters audit.

Councillors Paula Havixbeck and Russ Wyatt spent about an hour asking CFO Mike Ruta specific questions on various aspects of the audit, from why the oversight committee didn't keep meeting minutes to who knew the guaranteed maximum price was based on only 30 per cent of the drawings.

Katz told reporters after Wednesday's council meeting that the city's admin "would love the opportunity to address and answer questions."

During Thursday's finance meeting, Ruta often turned to city solicitor Krista Boryskavich for advice on whether he could answer a question.

At one point, Boryskavich said, "If there are questions specific to the mandate of the finance committee then those can be raised, but we're getting outside the scope of the mandate of the finance committee, then certain questions may be out of order."

To which Havixbeck replied, "I think it's all related to the finance committee," while Wyatt added, "This is speaking more to management. I'm not talking anything potentially criminal; I'm talking about the day-to-day management."

Both councillors then continued on with their questions and later said after the meeting in separate interviews with Metro that they'll continue to push for complete answers.

"We received the document from the auditor on Tuesday and have been reading it and thinking about it, and reading and thinking about it, so these are some questions that we've had so far," said Wyatt. "I'm sure there will be others."

Council passes amended transit bylaw

They shared their stories of being spit on and punched, of pain and humiliation, of fear and stress.

And Gail Lamoureux, the sister of a now-deceased retired Winnipeg Transit bus driver, asked a simple question: "My brother loved to drive a bus; is it too much to ask that you can do a job you love and feel safe doing it?"

City council agreed with the need for more safety on the city's buses, passing a transit bylaw during Wednesday's council meeting.

In recent days, the bylaw was mired in debate over one aspect prohibiting singing. That part, "play a musical instrument or sing," was struck out in a friendly amendment during the meeting.

Lamoureux said her brother was once beaten so badly, had it not been for a passerby, he may have died that day.

"He went on to drive for 31 years but was always wary of his passengers," she told council.

"That was 45 years ago, and still today operators are subject to public violence. They need a safer workplace."

Police to hold public forums on strategic plan

Five-year plan.

Chief Clunis calls plan a more proactive approach to policing

shane.gibson@metronews.ca

The Winnipeg Police Service and (WPS) the Winnipeg Police Board (WPB) want to hear from Winnipeggers before developing a new five-year strategic plan for the force.

Public forums will be held starting in August in all four police districts, and another two dedicated meetings will be held to hear the voices of aboriginal and newcomer communities.

"When you look at policing historically ... it's been fairly responsive, not very proactive," said WPS Chief Devon Clunis after the consultation dates were announced Thursday afternoon. "I think creating a strategic plan in partnership with the community helps us to be incredibly proactive ... and it goes beyond just policing."

The force's current strategic plan expires at the end of this year, and the information gathered at the public consultation will be used to help the organization set its initial priorities going forward.

"It's important to lay out a plan, have a vision and follow through with it," explained

WPB chair Coun. Scott Fielding, adding the plan will be reviewed once a year.

"It's a living, breathing document."

Polo Park area. Arrests made after teens beaten and robbed at knifepoint

Winnipeg police have arrested two men after a group approached a trio of teens in the Polo Park area and proceeded to threaten, rob and beat them for more than an hour late last week.

The three friends, two 18-year-old women and an 18-year-old man, left the mall around 4 p.m. on Saturday and made their way to the creek area under the railway bridge just east of Empress Street and Westway to take pictures.

While there, a group surrounded the friends and robbed them at knifepoint. One of them was wearing a "scary clown" mask, said the victims.

The male victim was assaulted in the upper body, and one of the female victims was robbed of her bank card and PIN and had an undisclosed amount of cash withdrawn by the group. Police say the victims were held for nearly an hour and a half.

On Thursday, two males were arrested for their alleged involvement. Dylan Carmen Anderson, 19, has been charged with three counts of robbery and three counts of forcible confinement. A 17-year-old also faces the same charges, along with an additional charge of failing to comply with a disposition. Both have been detained.

Police said further arrests are pending. METRO

Tragedy hits Malaysia Airlines again months after plane's disappearance

'Unprecedented'

Flight 17, carrying 283 passengers and 15 crew members, was shot down over Ukraine

Two Boeing 777s. Two incredibly rare aviation disasters. And one airline. In what appears to be a mind-boggling coincidence, Malaysia is reeling from the second tragedy to hit its national airline in less than five months.

On March 8, a Malaysia Airlines jetliner vanished about an hour after taking off from Kuala Lumpur, spawning an international mystery that remains unsolved. On Thursday, the airline — and the nation — were pitched into another crisis after the same type of aircraft was reported shot down over Ukraine. Ukraine officials said the plane was brought down by a missile over the violence-wracked eastern part of the country. Other details were only just beginning to emerge.

"This is a tragic day in what has already been a tragic year for Malaysia," Malaysian Prime Minister Najib Razak said.

"Either one of these events has an unbelievably low probability," said John Cox, president and CEO of Safety Operating Systems, who is also a former airline pilot and accident investigator. "To have two in a just a few months of each other is certainly unprecedented."

On Thursday, there was no mystery over the whereabouts of the Boeing 777-200ER, which went down on a flight from Amsterdam to Kuala Lumpur with 283 passengers and 15 crew members. Its wreckage was found in Ukraine, and there were no survivors. Officials said the plane was shot down at an altitude of 10,000 metres. The region has seen severe fighting between Ukrainian forces and pro-Russia separatists in recent days.

"If it transpires that the plane was indeed shot down, we insist that the perpetrators must swiftly be brought to justice," Malaysia's prime minister said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Researchers aboard flight

Several passengers on board the Malaysian jetliner shot down over Ukraine were world-renowned researchers heading to an international AIDS conference in Australia, officials said Friday.

"A number of people" on board the Boeing 777 were en route to the Australian city of Melbourne to attend the 20th International AIDS conference, which starts Sunday, Australian Foreign Affairs Minister Julie Bishop said.

Among the passengers was former president of the International AIDS Society Joep Lange, a well-known HIV researcher from the Netherlands, opposition leader Bill Shorten said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli military launches ground offensive in Gaza

The heavy thud of tank shells, often just seconds apart, echoed across the Gaza Strip early Friday as thousands of Israeli soldiers launched a ground offensive, escalating a 10-day campaign of heavy air bombardments to try to destroy Hamas' rocket-firing abilities and the tunnels used by militants to infiltrate Israel.

Flares lit up the night sky before dawn and the wail of ambulance sirens mixed with the Muslim call to prayer from mosque loudspeakers.

"There is a tank shell every minute," said an official in the Gaza security operations room, who said all of the seaside strip's border areas were being shelled.

More than 240 Palestinians have already died in the air campaign, including 14 children under age 12 killed over the past two days, according to Palestinian health officials. One Israeli has also died.

A Hamas spokesman, Fawzi Barhoum, said Israel "will pay dearly" for the assault. "Hamas is ready for a confrontation," he said. The Israeli operation began around 10 p.m. Thursday, with what the military said was an open-ended assault to be carried out on several fronts.

Organizers say they'll continue their civilian search for signs of a missing five-year-old Calgary boy and his grandparents after earlier calling it off because of a social-media backlash.

RCMP charges Mike Duffy with fraud and bribery

Senate scandal.

Spokesman for PM Harper calls suspended senator's alleged behaviour 'disgraceful'

With his folksy style and passion for politics, Mike Duffy became a household name as a veteran TV journalist — a career that led him to a coveted Conservative seat in Parliament's upper chamber.

All that came crashing down Thursday as the RCMP laid 31 charges of fraud, breach of trust and bribery against the suspended senator.

The charges involve Duffy's claims for living expenses, claims for travel expenses unconnected with Senate business and fraudulent contracts, said RCMP assistant commissioner Gilles Michaud. They also cover a $90,000 payment Duffy allegedly received from

Mike Duffy arrives on Parliament Hill in October 2013. The RCMP have laid 31 charges against the suspended senator. ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nigel Wright, the prime minister's former chief of staff.

Convictions on the charges could result in a prison sentence. The bribery count carries a maximum of 14 years.

Duffy's first court appearance is set for Sept. 16, the day after Parliament is scheduled to resume.

Donald Bayne, Duffy's lawyer, said when the full story is told, it will be clear Duffy is innocent of any wrongdoing.

"Those — including many in the media — who have been so eager and quick over the past year and a half to malign and even libel Sen. Duffy without his ever having had a fair hearing, should slow down their rush to judgment and let fair process determine this matter."

The behaviour outlined in the charges is "disgraceful," a spokesman for Stephen Harper said Thursday.

"We assisted the RCMP throughout their investigation and congratulate them on the progress they have made," Jason MacDonald said in a statement. "Those who break the rules must suffer the consequences. The conduct described in the numerous charges against Mr. Duffy is disgraceful."

Complete recovery?

Mayor guarantees that his enemies' wishes for him to fall off the wagon just won't happen

Toronto Mayor Rob Ford is declaring himself "sober as a judge" and "healthy as a horse."

For the first time since Ford completed two months in rehab, he took questions about his substance abuse from journalists at large. He previously said in a handful of interviews that he couldn't guarantee he won't relapse, only that he's taking his recovery one day at a time.

But he was more declarative Thursday when asked when the last time was that he drank or did drugs. "A lot of people really wish that I'm going to fail, that I'm going to drink and that I'm going to do drugs," Ford said. "Unfortunately, that wish will not come true. That wish, guaranteed, will not come true because I'm as sober as a judge and I'm moving forward, running this city and saving taxpayers money."

Ford said he knows people are watching his every move and that they should continue doing so because his "biggest move" will be on Oct. 27: election day. A sobriety coach who had been trailing Ford has moved on. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cops not amused by pizza prank, lay extra charges

Police in southern Kentucky say they got a surprise delivery after charging a man with shoplifting — five pizzas showed up at the station.

Police say Michael Harp, 29, asked to make a call on his cell while being booked. A short time later a pizza delivery driver showed up for the officer who arrested Harp.

Police say they linked the call to Harp by tracking his cell. But Harp said "about 10 people" used his phone.

Still, he now faces other charges: theft of identity, theft by deception and impersonating a police officer.

U.S.A. Campaigning politician gets into a jam showing gun bona fides

If guns are a run-of-the-mill prop for politicians in the United States, it was perhaps only a matter of time before things backfired on someone this campaign season.

A candidate in this fall's congressional elections had to yank down an online video in which he used a pump-action shotgun to blow up a pinata of an elephant — the logo of the Republican party.

It was the hint of political violence that people disliked, not the use of a shotgun in Estakio Beltran's campaign ad.

"They call me a long shot. They say I can't win in this district," said the ad featuring Beltran, who's running for a House seat in a conservative enclave of Washington State.

As he prepared to lay down the big kaboom, he added: "But what happens to an elephant when it stands around, doing nothing, for too long?"

The ad earned him a scolding from the group founded by Gabby Giffords, the former congresswoman partly paralyzed by an assassin's bullet.

Her group, Americans for Responsible Solutions, called the ad irresponsible and offensive.

But Giffords used to pose

Don't shoot the elephant

For those running in rural areas of the U.S. like Democrat Estakio Beltran, being photographed with a gun is almost a prerequisite for office, like kissing babies.

for pictures with guns, too.

Last year, someone leaked a photo of her holding an AR-15 assault rifle after her astronaut husband Mark Kelly had pushed for a restriction on the weapon, associated with the Newtown massacre.

Giffords responded on her Facebook page, saying she still supported gun rights but just wanted some stricter limits.

However some of the people commenting on her page called her a hypocrite, playing two sides of the fence.

Democrats in more conservative areas sometimes go to great visual lengths to prove their gun-rights bona fides.

Chelsea Manning. U.S. Bureau of Prisons rejects Army's transfer request

The U.S. Bureau of Prisons has rejected the Army's request to accept the transfer of national security leaker Chelsea Manning from a military prison. The military will therefore begin treatment for her gender-identity condition.

A defence official said Defence Secretary Chuck Hagel has approved the Army's recommendation to keep Manning in military custody and start a rudimentary level of gender treatment.

The Army tried to get Manning transferred to the federal prison system, but officials said those discussions have ended.

Manning has been diagnosed with gender dysphoria, the sense of being a woman in a man's body. Civilian prisons can provide treatment, but the Defence Department doesn't have the medical expertise needed. Officials spoke on condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to discuss the matter publicly by name. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Robbers intended to kill: Police

A gang of U.S. bank robbers who took three women hostage during their getaway attempt and waged a deadly, high-speed gun battle with police were heavily armed,

Two of the robbers were killed Wednesday along with a hostage who police said was used by the only surviving alleged robber, 19-year-old Jaime Ramos, as a shield. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sandusky's son talks to Oprah about alleged abuse by father

Adopted. Convicted of sexual abuse of 10 boys, Jerry Sandusky now serving from 30 to 60 years in prison

An adopted son of convicted child molester Jerry Sandusky is providing details of the sexual abuse he allegedly suffered at the hands of his father.

Matt Sandusky, who was initially a foster child of the Sanduskys, tells Oprah Winfrey in a TV show airing Thursday night that his overnight visits with the family as a child were good "except for one part: bedtime."

"Bedtime was the bad part. But any other time that we were in the home, that we were doing anything in the home with the family, it was fine and it was — again, you would look at that family and you would say, wow. Like I wish that I had brothers and sisters that cared about me. I wish that I had a mother who cooked dinner every night for the whole family. I wish that I had all of these things. But then at bedtime, his ritual began," Matt Sandusky told Winfrey in a brief clip released by the network.

The network said Sandusky discusses the grooming, methodical control and manipulation he faced as a child.

He had also discussed the alleged abuse in a documentary, Happy Valley, shown earlier this year and in an audiotape of an interview with police detectives that NBC obtained at the time of Jerry Sandusky's 2012 trial.

Matt Sandusky told investigators Jerry Sandusky had rubbed along or against his genitals. He said then that he did not recall any penetration or oral sex, and that memories were coming back to him. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lean and mean. Microsoft slashes jobs, boosts stock

Microsoft is cutting up to 18,000 jobs, about 14 per cent of its staff, over the next year as it works to cut down on management layers and integrate the Nokia devices business it bought in April.

The news sent Microsoft's stock up three per cent in premarket trading.

Although the job cuts had been expected, the extent of them was a surprise. It's the boldest move by CEO Satya Nadella since he took the reins from Steve Ballmer in February. In a public email to employees Thursday, he said the changes were needed for the company to "become more agile and move faster."

Of the job cuts, about 12,500 professional and factory jobs will be cut. Microsoft expects charges of $1.1 billion to $1.6 billion over the next four quarters, which includes $750 million to $800 million for severance and related benefit costs.

Microsoft has been shifting its focus from traditional PC software to cloud computing and cloud-based products, such as its Office 365 productivity software.

Redefining itself in the highly competitive food-services industry will be a challenge

Certainly there were plenty of ideas to chew on — some even controversial.

Consider the beer taps that pour brews inspired by Tim Hortons' trademark coffee flavour — and a strawberry lager for the sweeter tooth. Or how about a unisex washroom that features a communal sink?

WHO'S HER DADDY? ALLEGEDLY DUFFY

It's time to check into the week's trendiest news ... or is that the week's newsiest trends? I get so confused.

1 The 13th Step is the Hardest. Toronto Mayor Rob Ford is back from rehab and is trying, with mixed results, to get back in the game. It's getting so bad that Marion Barry, the former crack-smoking mayor of Washington, D.C., says Ford is "making a fool of himself" and he's tired of people making comparisons.

2 He Ain't Heavy, He's My, Er, Dad: Speaking of XXXL politicians, star-crossed Sen. Mike Duffy is having a rough week. RCMP has laid 31 charges of fraud and breach of trust against him related to the Senate expense scandal. And if that doesn't put him off his feed, he finds himself fending off a paternity lawsuit from a 32-year-old woman who says he's her real dad. According to Maclean's, Karen

THE METRO LIST
Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

The state, he opines, is breaking a solemn promise, i.e. to kill the condemned prisoner. Of the 900 sent to death row in California

Duffy sprang from an affair Duffy had with a convicted Peruvian drug smuggler who served time at a Kingston prison. Just writing that sentence gives me goosebumps.

3 You Can Go Home Again. Especially if they're paying you $21,573,398 US a year to do so. After four years as the cornerstone of the Miami Heat, Ohio native LeBron James is going back to Cleveland where he started his NBA career, saying that he hopes to be a Cavalier for the rest of his career. Miami. Cleveland. Cleveland. Miami. What's to choose?

4 Duh. A California judge has declared the death penalty unconstitutional — probably because if you're a judge, you can't just call something stupid. You have to get legal and call it unconstitutional. But his argument is a bit creepy, to say the least.

since 1978, only 13 have been executed. "For too long," the judge wrote, "the promise has been an empty one." Inmate to judge: I'm OK with that.

5 Death by Amoeba. In more unfunny news, a nine-year-old Kansas girl has been killed by a brain-eating amoeba called Naegleria fowleri. Lurking in the lake or the swimming hole, it goes up through your nose and heads for your brain ... and starts eating. It's extremely rare, but of the 130 people who have been infected over the last 50 years, only three have survived. Just when you thought it was safe to go back in the water.

6 What's Wrong with a Pony? Jeremiah Heaton, a doting dad from Virginia, gets the Enabler of the Week Award. His daughter Emily — like many a seven-year-old girl — is obsessed with princesses. So Dad hops on a plane and lands on an unclaimed patch of desert between Egypt and Sudan, where he plants the family flag (designed by the kids: blue background with a seal and stars), claiming it as The Kingdom of North Sudan, so Emily will one day be a real princess. Imagine if some guy from the Sudan tried that trick in Death Valley. We hope that Emily is amused, at least.

Vodou pilgrims head to the waters to pay tribute to patron saint Followers of Haiti's most celebrated patron saint, Our Lady of Mount Carmel, gather at the Saut d'Eau waterfall every summer to pay tribute and make requests.

This year, worshippers performed Voodoo cleansing rituals in the water, stripping off their clothes and using leaves to wash away bad luck and their sins.

They also petitioned the saint to improve their lives.

Lionel Saint-Jean said that after losing his house in Haiti's catastrophic 2010 quake, he asked the saint for a new one and got it.

"So I came this year to thank her for that," Saint-Jean said.

Thousands come to Saut d'Eau every year to honor the virgin.

Voodoo, or Vodou as many practitioners prefer, evolved from West African beliefs and adopted elements of Roman Catholicism.

STAR-TELEGRAM.COM

A tree grew in Haiti

The Saut d'Eau area holds cultural significance in Haiti, to both Catholic and Vodou practitioners.

- It is believed that the Virgin Mary of Mount Carmel appeared on a palm tree there in the 19th century.
- A French priest, afraid of the superstition this would inspire, cut the tree down, but it nonetheless became an important religious destination for Haitians.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Implausible porno. Cameron Diaz in her underwear, a newly slim Jason Segel and a clever Rob Lowe casting can't save this film's lacklustre libido

Richard: Mark, any movie with the word sex in the title and Cameron Diaz in her underwear and a newly slim Jason Segel in the all-together should be a lot sexier than Sex Tape is.

The first 20 minutes plays more like an attempt to break the world record for using the word "sex" in a movie than an actual story. Diaz and Segel talk about sex, have sex, then talk about it some more, but rather than being racy or slap-your-thigh funny it becomes tiresome. The only word used more often is "iPad," which is even less provocative.

Mark: Richard, this movie is one of the best Apple commercials I've seen in years. But it does have some laughs. I couldn't decide, though, if it was original yet flimsy or flimsy yet original.

I was glad the running time clocked in at a neat 90 minutes as it was wearing out its welcome fast.

That's mostly because Cameron Diaz' smokin' hot bod is naked only in the first half of the picture. She has a pretty good chemistry with Jason Segel, but Rob Lowe steals the show.

Considering his own past, it's a neat bit of stunt casting.

RC: The Robs are the best part of the movie. The iPad retrieval from Rosenbaum's mansion gives Rob Lowe (who knows a thing or two about sex tapes) a chance for some off-the-wall fun as the straight-laced executive with a wild side.

Rob Corddry's wide-eyed interest in his best friend's sex tape was amusing and felt like the most genuine thing in the movie.

I thought Diaz and Segel were OK, but I didn't buy into the movie's main joke for a second.

MB: Yes, well, talk about a manufactured crisis!

There's lots to pick apart here, especially the subplot involving Corddry's black-mailing teenage son. But there's some nifty dialogue, especially at the beginning of the movie, and a scene I liked at the porn server's with a cameo by a famous comic actor.

By the way, all those porn website titles they spiel off are real ones, or, umm, so I was told by the guy sitting next to me.

RC: Hey! I was sitting next to you. I take the fifth.

Unlike you, I hated the first section of the movie. I thought the least interesting part of the movie was the sex and the sex talk.

Synopsis

Jason Segel and Cameron Diaz are Jay and Annie, a married couple who try to spice things up in the bedroom by video-taping themselves working through the Joy of Sex page by page. All goes well until Jay forgets to delete the video and mistakenly posts their three-hour amateur pornacular on the cloud. With BFFs Robby (Rob Corddry) and Tess (Ellie Kemper), the embarrassed couple try and retrieve each of the "infected" iPads, especially the one in the hands of Hank Rosenbaum (Rob Lowe), the family-first CEO of the company that publishes Annie's G-rated mommy blog.

Diane Keaton sings a new tune

And So It Goes.

Veteran actress always wanted to become a singer and finally got her wish in latest role

scene@metronews.ca

Diane Keaton's latest film, the romance And So It Goes, brings the star back to her roots.

As a beginner, long before she won an Academy Award for Annie Hall, or starred in the controversial Looking for Mr. Goodbar or inspired romantic rivalry between her Reds leading men, Warren Beatty and Jack Nicholson, Keaton dreamed of being a singer.

"I had a fantasy of being a nightclub singer that I carried through even into my early 20s," she says.

"I sang a couple of gigs,

Michael Douglas and Diane Keaton star in And So It Goes, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED as they call them, but I was not very good. I began to understand that I was not going to be a singer. I've always loved to sing but I'm aware of the limitations of my voice. It was always a disappointing voice. I took singing lessons for years, but it was a very small voice. It's worse than it ever was. It's smaller than ever.

But I have this love of it. I love music. I love singing ballads and sad songs, it's just so much fun."

And sing she does in the new film, a romance

Quoted

"Getting old is a great levelling experience. You really do see the truth, which is that your expression and your goals don't really mean much in the grand scheme of things."

Diane Keaton

co-starring Michael Douglas — "He couldn't be any more charming," she says — about Leah, a woman who gets a second chance at a career and love.

"I never thought I'd ever sing again. I had some songs intermittently in some movies but to have it come up again and have the possibility of singing four songs and one song all the way through was a dream come true."

Keaton describes Leah, a lounge singer who bursts into tears at the mere thought of her late husband, as a woman, "who has had a lovely life but has lost the love of her life. She's my age, in her late 60s."

The 68-year-old Oscar winner says playing Leah was "a joy," but adds, "getting old is a great levelling experience. You really do see the truth, which is that your expression and your goals don't really mean much in the grand scheme of things."

"With that in mind you start seeing life in a different way. You don't see it so much as the goals for the future; it's just now. You live in the moment, in the present. This is what you have."

"So I really feel you're more grateful, you're more filled with awe, you're more amazed because it is a huge, giant question mark this life we live in."

"It's a huge gift and you need to see yourself for what you are and appreciate what you have while you have it now."

Cattrall makes comedy out of crisis

Mid-life misadventure.

Kim Cattrall tackles the uncomfortable issues of aging in her new series, Sensitive Skin

scene@metronews.ca

Years before Kim Cattrall found international stardom as Samantha Jones, the brash best friend of Carrie, Miranda and Charlotte on Sex and the City, she learned a valuable lesson from a Hollywood legend. The 24-year-old actress was starring opposite Jack Lemmon in Tribute, a film version of the Broadway show that earned Lemmon a Tony nomination.

Lemmon had dozens of credits, including classics like Some Like It Hot and The Apartment under his belt and two Oscars on his mantelpiece at home.

"How do you have longevity?" she asked the veteran actor.

"Take things that scare the pants off you," he replied.

It's advice she took to heart, particularly when approaching her new project, Sensitive Skin for HBO Canada.

"I think for me to bring this story to North America was the scariest thing," she says. "Hanging in there and really trusting my instincts because I doubted them sometimes. I put it on the shelf and I walked away but I kept coming back and I think the thing that kept me coming back was the fear of it.

Don McKellar and Kim Cattrall star as a couple trying to stave off their midlife crisis in Sensitive Skin. HBO CANADA

"I could go on playing Samantha for the rest of my life but I wouldn't be very happy. I wouldn't be advancing in any way. This was really hard sometimes and it did scare me daily on the set. I never had children but I can imagine it's like having a child, or going through the gestation period. Instead of nine months it was almost nine years and you go through periods of real doubt and self-doubt."

Returning to television for the first time since Sex and the City, Cattrall plays Davina, a woman on the verge of a mid-life crisis who, along with her husband Al (Don McKellar), shakes the cobwebs off her suburban life by moving downtown.

The Big Smoke

"The city is almost a character as well. We've really given Toronto a midlife crisis too."

Kim Cattrall on filming Sensitive Skin in Toronto

"It's the change of the guard, isn't it? I'm starting to play characters who are of a certain age and it is a feeling of, 'Am I really ready for this?' Holding onto yesterday instead of embracing whatever this is," she says.

The show not only focuses on Davina and Al — "One of the things I'm most proud of is that you really believe Don and I are a couple," she says. — but also Toronto, the city they call home. She credits McKellar, who also directed the series, with capturing the look and feel of Hogtown.

"He's made Toronto look like the city it is," she says. "Which is very difficult to capture. Because he has lived there his whole life, we were shooting in neighbourhoods the crew didn't even know about. It's so diverse. The city is almost a character as well. We've really given Toronto a mid-life crisis too."

Series premiere

Sensitive Skin premieres Sunday on HBO Canada at 8 p.m. ET/MT.

Saget sat right down and wrote cleansing memoir

Full House rules.

Comedian gets real about tarnishing his Danny Tanner family-man image with dirty standup schtick

Something titillating occurs when the stand-up comedian who endeared himself to TV audiences in the 1990s as the wholesome patriarch on Full House tours the festival circuit after decades of freestyling his particular brand of silly-

Bob Saget COURTESY

dirty humour. "They do take whatever controlled substances as these events go, and that's when my name from the past comes into play," Bob Saget joked in a recent interview. "They go, 'Oh my god, you're Danny Tanner,' and then I go, 'Yes I am, please put your shirt down, miss.'"

Saget, 58, has pushed his career forward with crass laughs in the years since he also played the host on America's Funniest Home Videos. But when pressed on the drugs issue in relation to his performance this Saturday at the Pemberton Music Festival, north of Vancouver, it's his inner parent who responds.

"I don't condone it, I don't want to see anybody get hurt, I want everybody to have a good time," said the real-life father of three, noting he just wants his audience to have the best time possible.

S a g e t will share the Laugh C a m p stage at the festival's re-launch with a gut-busting lineup of a dozen or so comedians that also includes Tom Green, Lisa Lampanelli and Norm Macdonald. Dozens of bands, including Soundgarden and Kendrick Lamar will also perform this weekend.

Saget's hour-long set will be a "best of" showcase, he said, where he'll "scat" stories, rib the audience and perhaps make the crowd sing along with a tune he popularized at Montreal's Just For Laughs Festival. Over the past year, Saget has toured across the United States, Australia and six Canadian provinces.

This time he is also promoting his memoir, released in April, called Dirty Daddy: The Chronicles of a Family Man Turned Filthy Comedian. The account, he said, is "about as honest as I've ever been with anything."

It describes a life peppered with death: Four siblings, three uncles, Saget's father and, just before she had time to read the whole thing, his mother. Saget said he hopes the book underscores that no matter how bad life can get, comedy can be the salve.

"When there's humour in that conversation," Saget said, "it really does diffuse the moment. And it creates compassion, also, which can help a person feel like a person amidst some of the most horrific things that they go through."

When asked whether Saget, a man who has sought success through contrasting faces, understands himself now, he didn't joke.

"Oh, I definitely do," he said. "I'm a silly comedian. I'm not a dirty comedian as much as I am a silly comedian. I laugh at stuff that a 10-year-old enjoys."

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Crass course in comeuppance

Saget intentionally sullied his image with roles in Entourage and The Aristocrats following the family friendly shows that made him a household name. He said the book wasn't so much an attempt to reinvent himself yet again as it was a "heart" exercise that was his immature way of "getting my comeuppance."

- His three adult daughters and their mother, from whom he is divorced, all loved the recounting, he said.
- "It was a little sketchy for (them) at first, because it was a shocker," he added, noting they expressed joy at forgotten memories and wonder over life details they never knew.
- "It was an outpouring for me, in my narcissistic writer's bubble. It was an empathetic kindness that I hadn't felt for a long time, because I laid myself out there.
- "That was the nicest part about it. Even my ex-wife said, 'Oh, I get you now. I understand that.'"

Sheryl Crow

Sheryl Crow having trouble finding an equal

Sheryl Crow likes to be extra-sure before jumping into anything, which is why she's been in no rush to walk down the aisle.

"It's better to have three broken engagements than three divorces," she tells Good Housekeeping, poking fun at her own dating history.

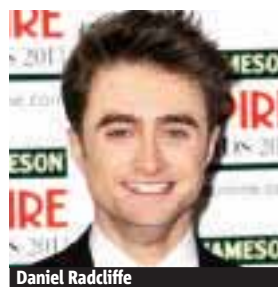

So far as we know, she's only ever been engaged to Lance Armstrong, but she's also dated the likes of Eric Clapton and Owen Wilson.

"I had always gone out with guys who were highly successful, which would seem like it would put me at an equal level," she explains to the magazine. "But what ends up happening is that one of you becomes smaller — and it was always me. It's always the woman. I mean, I don't know if it's always the woman, but I do think that sometimes in order for one person's light to shine, everyone else has to dim theirs."

Career first, romance and marriage second for driven Harry Potter star

Daniel Radcliffe's focus on his career is reportedly making for some uncomfortable times at home with girlfriend of two years Erin Darke, according to celebrity biographer Randy Jernigan.

"Right now, Daniel's career comes first, not romance and marriage. Erin was expecting more from him. She feels like she isn't a priority in his life," Jernigan says. The author, who has an unauthorized biography of the Harry Potter star due later this summer, points to a recent Daily Beast article in which Radcliffe dismissed engagement rumors as "absolute bullocks," angering

Daniel Radcliffe

Darke. "They're not engaged, but when he scoffed at the idea of marriage to the reporter, she was offended," he says. "It made her feel like she wasn't important to him."

METRO DISH

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

It's not Harry's style to embark on a solo career

NED
Metro in Hollywood

Calm down, kids. Harry Styles is not leaving One Direction to embark on a solo career. Not yet, at least.

"Harry has no plans to go solo," a source tells Radar Online. "Harry is very reliant on the guys and feels much more secure when with them. He is actually quite timid in person."

That's adorable and all, but now I'm starting to think that there might actually be something to the rumors and that this denial is just a ruse. After all, the British are masters at self-deprecation, and the more self-effacing they get the less you can believe them. Like when you offer an Englishman more cake and he says, "Oh, I couldn't possibly"? He could, in fact.

So if this "source" had just left it at Harry being comfortable in a group setting, that would have been fine — and definitely more than a little suggestive. But the whole timid thing? Red flag, man. He's pulling a Timberlake.

Sheen dings Taco Bell: 'Where else do you go when you are hammered?'

This might not actually count as news, but Charlie Sheen got wasted and wandered through a Taco Bell drive-through on foot, chatting amiably with customers waiting in their cars.

One customer got the whole thing on camera and posted it to YouTube in a clip that features Sheen offering, "Sorry, I'm so f—ing hammered." The actor's very patient rep, Jeff Ballard, tells E! News that Sheen was in fact drunk — and being chauffeured around at the time — and that the incident happened last week while he was on hiatus from his Anger Management sitcom.

"Where else do you go when you are hammered?" Ballard offers.

Biebs to be on the hot seat again regarding Gomez

It's too bad Justin Bieber had such a terrible time during his last videotaped deposition in connection with his paparazzi assault case, because the pop star is going to have to do it all over again.

A judge has ordered Bieber back for further interrogation due to his refusal to answer questions related to on-again, off-again girlfriend Selena Gomez, according to TMZ.

Bieber will be questioned by the same lawyer who riled him so back in March, prompt-

Watermelon and feta is always a winning combination.

The interplay of colours, the different textures, and the balance between sweet and salty is perfection.

Add cucumber, chicken and a cocktail for a great start to a relaxing summer

Ingredients

Vinaigrette

- 1/4 cup (60 ml) mayonnaise
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) Dijon mustard
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) white wine vinegar or 1 tbsp (15 ml) rice vinegar

Salad

- 2 chicken breast halves, poached or grilled, sliced or cubed afternoon.

Dressing

1. In a bowl, combine mayonnaise, Dijon mustard, white wine vinegar (or rice vinegar). Set aside.

Salad

1. In a large bowl, combine sliced or cubed chicken breast, arugula, diced watermelon, sliced fennel, sliced cucumber, chopped green onions, crumbled feta cheese, and sea salt and pepper. Divide the Chicken, Watermelon, Feta and Cucumber salad among four plates.

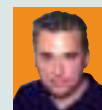

2. Drizzle with the vinaigrette over the salad. Season with salt and pepper.

In a wine rut? Do you keep pouring the same old pinot grigio or merlot? Well, it's time to start drinking outside the box and experiment with a new grape.

While there are hundreds of berries in the naked vineyard, a number are just shy of mass market popularity, which makes them ripe for discovery.

I'm thinking white fruit like verdejo and grüner veltliner, and reds like grenache (a.k.a. garnacha) and tempranillo.

Tempranillo is arguably wine's most stealth grape, having slipped under the radar of most Canadian consumers for decades.

A superstar in its native Spain, if you've had a red from its Rioja region you may have a taste for it.

Campo Viejo's 2011 Tempranillo ($14.45 - $19.79) used to be called Crianza (a nod to the juice having spent at least one year aging in oak barrels). Smooth and medium-bodied, it shows classic red berry and cherry flavours along with a lingering impression of cedar, spice and leather. Try with grilled burgers, paella and meat-laden pizzas. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Willy kept under wraps as Bombers suffer first defeat

The Eskimos' Almondo Sewell wraps up Blue Bombers' quarterback Drew Willy at Investors Group Field on Thursday night. Willy and the Bombers' offence were held in check in a 26-3 loss, the team's first defeat of the season. Edmonton improved to 4-0 while Winnipeg slipped to 3-1. Rory looking to end unfortunate Fridays

Golf. After starting strong, 'Boy Wonder' must prove he can follow up strong at British Open Rory McIlroy had everything go his way Thursday in the British Open.

A lovely summer day in England with abundant sunshine and minimal wind allowed him to attack Royal Liverpool. He made half his six birdies on the par 5s and kept bogeys off his card. And on the day Tiger Woods made a promising return, McIlroy took the lead with a 6-under 66, his best score in nearly two years at a major.

Now if he can only find a way to get to the weekend.

Punching in at the British Open

"I'm not some big-time Charlie who is going to win — obviously I'd love to win — I was there to enjoy myself, soak it all up."

John Singleton who wound up shooting a 6-over 78, having been even par after 11 holes. On a typical Thursday at 10:30 a.m., Singleton would be making paints and varnishes in a resin factory. On this one-off occasion, Singleton was 10 minutes down the road at the British Open at Royal Liverpool. His boss closed the factory and bought co-workers tickets to watch Singleton on his big day.

fore," McIlroy said. "I'm used to doing that. I just haven't done it recently. We'll see what tomorrow brings and what weather it is and try and handle it as best I can."

"Hopefully, it's just one of those things and I'm able to turn it around tomorrow."

Woods also would like to keep moving in the right direction. He got off to a troubling start with two quick bogeys, nearly made another one on the fourth hole, and then looked like a 14-time major champion when he ran off five birdies in six holes toward the end of his round for a 69.

Not bad for a guy who had back surgery March 31, who started taking full swings only a month ago and who had not played in a major in 11 months.

"It felt good to be back out there competing again," Woods said.

World No. 1 Adam Scott finished with a 68 but was the only player in the top 10 who played in the afternoon when the wind made Hoylake tougher. Scott was slowed only by two bogeys on the back nine.

Goldeyes

Fish snap 3-game losing streak

The Winnipeg Goldeyes got a jolt of momentum and some important separation on Thursday afternoon.

Playing in front of a crowd of 5,788 at Shaw Park, the Fish beat the St. Paul Saints 7-2 to win the final game of a five-game series and pull 4-1/2 games ahead of the Saints in the race for first in the American Association's North Division.

Casey Haerther was the hitting hero as the league-leading hitter raised his average to .396 with three hits in five trips. He also drove in a pair of runs as the Goldeyes improved to 37-22 on the season.

Reggie Abercrombie went 3-for-4 with two runs scored.

While the Goldeyes' bats came alive to snap a three-game losing streak, the real hero might have been starter Ethan Hollingsworth. Hollingsworth battled for 6-2/3 innings, allowing only one run on eight scattered hits as the Saints had at least one base runner in every inning.

"This is a team that won't go very long without scoring runs and we knew we'd start getting good at bats again," said Haerther, whose two-run double in the eighth inning put the game out of reach.

SCOTT TAYLOR/FOR METRO

Dazed and confused

"Shortly after the blow, Kramer came to me asking, 'Ref, is this the final?' I thought he was joking and made him repeat the question, and then he said, 'I need to know if this is really the final.' When I said, 'Yes,' he concluded, 'Thanks, it was important to know that.'"

Germany midfielder Christoph Kramer was disoriented and confused after taking a heavy blow to the head early in the World Cup final, according to the match's referee Nicola Rizzoli. Scan the image with your Metro News app for an update on FIFA's latest rankings.

Tom Renney: 'We have to make the rink a destination'

Hockey Canada. New boss says his mandate not just gold medals

Tom Renney joked that on his first day as Hockey Canada president and CEO, his first challenge was finding his new office.

Renney, hired earlier this week to lead Hockey Canada, is working out of the same office as his predecessor, Bob Nicholson, but he'll be tasked with doing a much different job.

Renney's on-the-job challenges include trying to make hockey more affordable for children to begin and for adults to continue. He'll also be counted on to handle the 2018 Winter Olympics, which may or may not include NHL players.

The 59-year-old, who spent the bulk of his professional career as an NHL coach, considers it his "mandate" not to just oversee gold medals but to make hockey enjoyable and protect it as other sports fight for athletes' time and interest. He called that "Point 1" and specifically emphasized wanting to introduce hockey to Canadian immigrants.

"We have to make the rink a destination," Renney said. "We want to make sure that leadership in every community across the country is sound and value-driven to make sure that the experience is something that will last a lifetime so that we continue to grow the game."

In order to get the position, Hockey Canada board of directors chairman Jim Hornell said Renney had to make presentations as part of the interview process. Through that, Hornell said Renney's "passion came through." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

Even an ambitious Aries needs to take it easy once in a while and the planets are now urging you to relax. Spend time with your loved ones today. They would like to see more of you.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Your task for the next 24 hours is to find a way to release all that pent-up energy that's inside you in a way that does you good while not harming other people. Give it some thought, then do something physical.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Anything of a creative nature will go well for you today — and you could make money from it too. Your number one aim is, of course, to enjoy what you are doing, but if it helps your finances too that's a bonus.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

According to the planets you're not in the mood to make much of an effort, but that's OK. There is no cosmic law that says you must be busy at all times. You'll get more from being an observer than being a doer today.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Like everyone else, you have weaknesses and the planets warn that one of them — pride most likely — could be your undoing. Just because everything is going well does not mean you can let down your guard.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

If you need assistance of any sort today you must ask for it, because you don't have to do it all on your own. You have friends — good friends — who will be more than happy to help you out. So make use of them.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You need to decide which is more important to you: love or ambition. You can, of course, have both but if you are wise you will put personal happiness first and professional success second. People are more important than things.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You seem to be pushing yourself harder than ever of late but will achieve more in the long-term if you balance your physical and mental efforts with plenty of relaxation. Treat yourself to a massage or a day at the spa.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

There is no need to rush and there is no need to impose deadlines on what you are doing. The more pressure you put on yourself the more likely it is you will make a mistake. Relax: everything will work out.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You are in a romantic mood at the moment and that's good. The only danger is that you will put the object of your affection on too high a pedestal and feel devastated when, inevitably, they take a tumble. They're human, just like you.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

A friend or family member will ask you to cover up for them in some way today and you'll be happy to do so. But hold on. You don't want to see them get hurt, of course, but shouldn't they be learning from their own mistakes?

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You will feel so affectionate today — you're in love with the whole wide world. It won't last, of course, but while it does see how many good deeds you can do for friends, relatives and even strangers. You'll make such a difference.

You deserve credit from someone who's credible.
